The Ultimate Garment Control System From

U.S. Linen & Uniform

U.S. Linen & Uniform is again on the leading edge of technology. We are one of the first textile rental companies in the country, and the only one in the Pacific Northwest, to have the ultimate in garment control, bar codes.

Bar codes allow U.S. Linen & Uniform to individually identify each garment in use. This is like doing an inventory each week. We scan all garments coming in to the plant so we have 100% accountability for all garments turned in.

The bar code system can provide you with a complete list of garments not turned in for any period, a week, a month, 3 months, any period. This allows you to check on any garments that are not being used.

Also, when you want to return some garments, such as when someone quits, with one phone call we can give you the status of each garment. We can tell you what goods are in the plant and what goods you should have. If any goods are missing, we can tell you when they were issued, their condition when issued, number of times processed, and when last processed.

These are some features of the bar code system and as you can see, the bar code garment control system is superior to any other garment control system.
